Silky Smooth Sheeting at Strands Textile Mills

Wrinkle Resistant Sheets from Strands Home

Strands Textile Mills unveiled their Suite 417 showroom in March for the NY Home Fashions Market. Strands Textile Mills had its beginnings 25 years ago in India producing down proof products like pillow and featherbed shells as well as comforters. It gradually expanded into a vertical integrated unit with weaving, warping, sizing, processing, stitching, packaging and factory stuffed containers. These containers are shipped to the U.S. with an 18 day lead time to the east coast and a 25 day lead time to the west coast.

Strands Textile Mills primarily specializes in 100% combed cotton sheets ranging from 230TC to 1000TC. Other products also part of their collections include: comforters, quilts, duvets, blankets, bed-in-a-bag, mattress pads and protectors, baby crib sets and down proof products. Their products are sold wholesale to various retail and department stores as well as to the hotel and hospitality industry.

New from Strands Home are "Wrinkle Free / Wrinkle Resistant" sheets in a luxurious 100% cotton sateen weave available in a superfine 400TC or higher. According to Sandeep Jain, Marketing Director of Strands Textile Mills USA, LLC, "Wrinkle resistant sheets are one of the best buys you will ever make for your bedroom." Besides being silky soft and durable, these sheets have a wrinkle-free finish that lasts through 50 machine washings and fit up to an 18 inch mattress. The collection also includes a duvet, pillow shams and comforter cover. Antony Gormley Atop 230

230 Fifth Avenue is one of the buildings where an Antony Gormley sculpture has been installed, forming part of Gormley's "Event Horizon" exhibit. This sculpture appears on the rooftop of 230 Fifth Avenue and is on view from March 26 through August 15, 2010.

The "Event Horizon" public art exhibition consists of 31 life-size body forms of the artist Antony Gormley cast in iron and fiberglass appearing throughout Madison Square Park as well as on rooftops of buildings in the Flatiron District. "Event Horizon" was originally created in 2007 by Antony Gormley for London's Hayward Gallery. The purpose behind this exhibit is to create more awareness in people. As the artist Gormley explains, "In observing the works dispersed over the city, viewers will discover that they are the center of a concentrated field of silent witnesses; they are surrounded by art that is looking out at space and perhaps also at them. In that time, the flow of daily life is momentarily stilled."
